

The Little Red Hen

4C Chan Tsz Yau, Naomi

Once upon a time, a pig, a mouse, a cat and a little red hen lived on a big farm. The little red hen was very hard-working. The other animals were very lazy. They played games and slept every day.

In spring and summer, the little red hen grew the crops, but other animals were very lazy so only little red hen worked. In winter, the little red hen cut the crops to make some bread. The cat, the mouse and the pig were very hungry. They wanted to eat the little red hen's bread, but she said, "You can't eat my bread." Finally the animals did not eat any food.

This story taught us to be hard-working. We should work hard every day.
