

The Little Red Hen

4A Joey Lau

Once upon a time, there were four animals living on a farm. They were Little Red Hen, Little Pig, Little Cat and Little Mouse. One day, Little Red Hen said, "Who can help me make some bread?" Other animals said, "I don't want to help you. I want to sleep on the grass." Then Little Red Hen planted the seed, grew the crops and made the bread herself.

In winter, she ate the bread herself but other animals had no food and were very hungry. Little Mouse said, "Can you give me some bread?" Little Red Hen said, "No! No! No! You didn't help me in summer so you can't eat the bread now."

The other animals were very sad and hungry. They planted the seeds, grew the crops and made the bread themselves. Then Little Red Hen said, "Sorry! I should help you. Can we be friends?" Other animals said, "Yes! Yes! Yes! We are friends!" They then happily ate the bread together.

The moral of this story is that we should be hard working and helpful.
